

I believe the FCC should back up XM Radio on this issue and back off trying to decide what the consumer wants to pay to hear. This is a subscription service that I pay for and I don't want to be dictated to about what type of services I want. There is a huge difference between this and free radio. Respectfully,
Doug Fogle